We invite you to experience a truly personal and historic wedding in Port Gamble. Celebrate your forever ever after at our privately owned, 120-acre National Historic Landmark on the shores of Hood Canal. Port Gamble offers two charming venues to help create your perfectly timeless wedding and reception. With turn-of-the-century buildings, New England style homes on maple tree-lined streets and a stunning waterfront backdrop, Port Gamble has become one of the most sought-after wedding venues in the Pacific Northwest.

Founded in 1853 by Maine businessmen Andrew Pope and William Talbot, Port Gamble was the longest continuously operating mill town in North America. Authentically restored and operated by Pope Resources, Port Gamble is the only remaining company-owned mill town in Puget Sound. We invite you to visit our unique shops, explore our trails, exchange vows, celebrate an event, or simply take a leisurely stroll and relive history.

St. Paul's Church overlooks the waters of Port Gamble Bay. The church, built in 1879, is modeled after a church in East Machias, Maine—the hometown of Port Gamble's original founders. The beautifully restored church is one of the most photographed buildings in Washington State. The steeple houses the original church bell—acquired more than a century ago—and is still heard throughout town as wedding couples ring in their marriage.

Hood Canal

Vista Pavilion

Surrounded by beautifully landscaped gardens, the Hood Canal Vista Pavilion offers breathtaking panoramic views and stunning sunsets over the Hood Canal. In the Pavilion, a floor to ceiling stone fireplace sits opposite abundant windows overlooking lush seasonal gardens. Six sets of French doors lead to a slated patio and an expansive grassy bluff right on the shores of the Hood Canal. In the spring and summer months, an adjacent tented terrace offers an additional location for a reception, dance floor and/or cocktail hour.
